DETAILED ACTION

Claims 3- 17, 19 and 20 remain pending.

Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Response to Arguments

The Applicants arguments filed on February 8, 2006 have been fully considered. The amended calims are rejected in view of newly discovered reference Ahmed et al. (US Patent 6,704,772)
See following rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-7, 13-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Gay, (US Patent 6,792,145) in view of Rackman (US Patent No 5,903,646), and further in view of Ahmed et al. (US Patent 6,704,772)

As per claim 3,

Gay ('145) discloses in a computer system operatively coupled to a network and capable of executing a communication process for sending and receiving electronic mail documents, a method comprising:

storing the shadow document in a computer usable memory.(Figure 2)

Art Unit: 3621

Gay ('145) does not explicitly disclose "parsing the original document for selected logistical data comprising any of sender, receiver, original size, subject, date, carbon copies of the original document. Ahmed et al. ('772) discloses Parsing the original document for selected logistical data comprising any of sender, receiver, original size, subject, date, carbon copies of the original document, (Column 11, lines 50-67). It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the Gay ('145) method with the Ahmed et al. ('772) in order to provide electronic messaging to multiple users

Claim 12 is in parallel with claim 3 and is rejected for at least the same reasons.

As per claim 4,

Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 3 wherein "A" further comprises: filtering the original document for selected content.(Figure 2)

As per claim 5,

Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 3

Gay ('145) does not explicitly disclose wherein the shadow document further comprises selected data from the content of the original document. Rackman ('646) discloses wherein the shadow document further comprises selected data from the content of the original document. (Figure 4A). It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the Gay ('145) method with the Rackman ('646) in order to create a redundant data archive using the original content so that the document could be retrieved in the event of primary system failing.

As per claim 6,

Gay ('145) discloses in a computer system operatively coupled to a network and capable of executing a communication process for sending and receiving electronic mail documents, a method comprising:

Gay ('145) does not explicitly disclose creating a shadow document from an original document upon sending of an original document by the communications process; identifying one of a parent and child document of the original document and storing a reference thereto in the shadow document. Rackman ('646) discloses creating a shadow document from an original document;(Column 8, lines 15-17; figure 4A) identifying one of a parent and child document of the original document and storing a reference thereto in the shadow document,(Column 8, lines 47-52). It would be obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to combine the Gay ('145) method with the Rackman ('646) in order to create a redundant data archive so that the document could be retrieved in the event of primary system failing.

Claim 7 is in parallel with claim 6 and is rejected for at least the same reasons.

As per claim 13,

Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 3 further comprising:

Art Unit: 3621

presenting graphical representations of a plurality of documents in a manner which indicates relationships among the documents.(Figure 5)

As per claim 14,
Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 13
wherein at least one of the plurality of presented documents is an original document.(Figure 5)

As per claim 15,
Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 13
wherein at least one of the plurality of presented documents is a shadow document.(Figure 5)

As per claim 16,
Gay ('145) discloses the method of claim 1 further comprising:
resolving the reference in a shadow document to one of the parent and child document, and maintaining in memory data identifying a plurality of shadow documents and any parent and child documents thereof.(Figure 2)

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 8,-12, 17,19 and 20 are allowable over the prior art record.

Conclusion

Examiners note: Examiner has cited particular columns and line numbers in the references as applied to the claims above for the convenience of the applicant. Although the specified citations are representative of the teachings of the art and are applied to the specific limitations within the individual claim, other passages and figures may apply as well. It is respectfully requested from the applicant in preparing responses, to fully consider the references in entirety as potentially teaching all or part of the claimed invention, as well as the context of the passage as taught by the prior art or disclosed by the examiner.

Any inquiry of a general nature or relating to the status of this application or concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to John Winter whose telephone number is (571) 272-6713.
